Built2Last:

Composites Durability Workshop

Presented by Composites One in Partnership with IACMI

February 23 - 24 • Laboratory for Systems Integrity & Reliability (LASIR) • Nashville, TN

Composites One, the Closed Mold Alliance, along with Magnum Venus Products, and The Institute for Advanced Composites Manufacturing Innovation (IACMI) invite you to attend Built2Last!

If you are involved with Composite fabrication in Industrial, Architectural, Defense, Infrastructure, or Transportation markets - this workshop is for you! Production workers, supervisors, repair and finishing departments, materials managers, engineers, designers, management, and anyone interested in understanding composites processes and materials will all find value at this not-to-miss industry event.

WHAT YOU'LL SEE AND LEARN:

- Composites Design Considerations for Durability
- Life Cycle Prediction Analysis (Cyclic and Dynamic Fatigue Loading)
- Limiting Variations with Process Controls in Light RTM, Vacuum Bagging, and Prepreg Processes
- Composite Material Selection for Improved Fatigue & Damage Tolerance Measuring
- Toughness / Damage Tolerance in Composites
- Non-Destructive Evaluation on Large Scale Composites Structures
- Bonding Line Assurance in Composite-Metal Assemblies
- Utilizing Thermoplastic Fibers for Product Life Cycle
- Damage Repair with Composites: Seismic, Waterfront, or Runways
- Self-Healing Materials, Sensors, and Smart Structures
- And, Much More!

Be the Best - Enroll in a CCT Program!

ACMA's Certified Composites Technician (CCT) program is the industry's gold standard for composites training - providing the industry with essential knowledge and expertise on various programs. Whether you're a student, technician, or sales/marketing professional, the CCT program provides essential core knowledge for all professionals - from any skill level, professional background, or market segment.

Visit www.acmanet.org/cct for more information!
